Duct Leakage Testing & Blower Door Analysis

Who is approved to perform the blower door test for code compliance? The code says "Testing shall be conducted by an approved third party where required by the building official." The Building Code Commission is currently reviewing legislation that will approve statewide credentials. As of March 2014 there is no standard in place. The certifications under consideration for performing blower door and duct leakage testing are BPI, HERS, and ACCA 12.
